

Organic bitter spray

Please bitter: The rediscovery of a fascinating flavor

Bitter. The flavor that brings a sour expression followed by a mischievous smile to many people's faces can be a valuable life hack. It is no coincidence that the targeted use of amara (bitter plants) in the form of stomach bitters or bitter drops before or after a sumptuous meal has long been a tradition in various cultures.

However, bitter is anything but simple. While the human body only has two receptors for recognizing the taste qualities umami and sweet, bitter produces a firework of flavours involving at least 24 different receptor variants. Although not everyone is immediately drawn to the stubborn taste, the desire for bitter can be trained through the regular consumption of bitter substances.

Organic bitter spray

The Organic Bitter Spray combines tradition and modernity in a bitter-sweet tête-à-tête. In perfect symbiosis, traditional monastery recipes merge with modern plant knowledge and are skillfully brought into the spray drop.
